TWEED'S SENTENCE.

The most memorable and impressive scene ever witnessed in a New York Court room, was that in the Oyer and Terminer Court last Saturday, when Judge Noah Davis, pronounced the sentence of the law and affixed the brand of crime upon William M. Tweed, the man who two short years ago wielded almost dictatorial powers in New York city and State, and whose magnificent public robberies have excited the astonishment of the world. When the prisoner was told to stand up a breathless silence fell upon the audience, as the burly form of Tweed arose, his height bringing his face nearly on a level with that of the Judge on the bench so that they could look directly into each other's eyes as the sentence was being pronounced as follows:—

William M. Tweed, you stand convicted by a verdict of a jury of twelve honest men of a large number of crimes charged against you in one indictment, and that verdict ... the opinion of the court, could not have been otherwise, without a violation of the oaths which the jury had taken, and in utter disregard of the obligations under which they rested to speak the truth and the whole truth. ... The proof in this case ... from the moment that it was first presented to the jury to the close of the people's case was simply a mathematical demonstration of your guilt. Holding a highly responsible and honorable public office, yourself honored and respected by a large class of the community in which you lived, and I have no doubt beloved by your associates, you, with all these important public trusts devolving upon you, with all the opportunities you had, had you faithfully performed your duties to the public, ...

STATE OF MAINE.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

A PROCLAMATION.

For the continued enjoyment of peace and plenty, for the maintenance of civil and religious liberty, for the evidences of increasing Christian charity, for general health and prosperity, and for the other manifold blessings which a kind Providence has so graciously bestowed upon our people during the past year, we have abundant reason for thankfulness. I do, therefore, in accordance with a reputed custom and in conformity to the recommendation of the President of the United States, and with the advice of the Executive Council appoint

Thursday the Twenty-Seventh day of November next, as a day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise. Let us on that day, in our places of public and private worship with fervent devotion and sincere gratitude for our sins, offer the tribute of grateful hearts to the Bountiful Giver of all good things and supplicate Divine aid for our future guidance and protection. "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord and sing praises unto thy name, O Most High." Let the people praise Them, O God, let all the people praise Thee."

Given at the Council Chamber in Augusta this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and ninety-eighth.

SIDNEY PERHAM.

By the Governor,

GEORGE G. STACY, Secretary of State.

THANKSGIVING DAY

By the action of our National and State authorities, to day has been designated for the observance of the time-honored New England custom of annually rendering public thanks and praise to God, for the mercies and bounties so freely bestowed upon us. As a people we have abundant cause to give thanks for the blessings we enjoy, and it is fitting that the voices of the Nation, of States of communities and of individuals, should blend in grateful acknowledgment of Divine favor. It is only of late years that this observance has become general throughout the country and the greater National prominence to which it has attained has not served to render it less peculiarly the festival of New England. Here, aside from the appropriate public exercises, Thanksgiving Day is cherished as the occasion for reuniting the scattered links of the home circle, and to-day, as in the years that have gone, the absent ones are gathering from far and near, in obedience to its pleasant summons.

We cannot attempt to enumerate the blessings which have been vouchsafed to us as a people during the year, and each heart has its store of grounds which no pen could express. To the peaceful enjoyment of liberty and peace have been added freedom from pestilence, abundant harvests and general prosperity. The terrible scourge that visited a section of the country was mercifully stayed in its progress, the fruits of the earth have yielded an abundance which enables us to supply the eager demands of another continent—our commerce with foreign nations is becoming more and more favorable, our currency is steadily approaching the standard of the world, the credit of the Nation has wonderfully recovered from the straitened burden of a costly civil strife, and we have abundant reason to be thankful that the recent financial disturbances have occurred at a time when the condition of the country was so well calculated to prevent universal disaster. From these temporary reverses are likely to prove blessings in disguise, in checking the extravagant and speculative tendency of the times and restoring our business to a sound and safe basis.

We have seen how to value peace in the bloody years when we demonstrated our willingness to do battle for our country and a righteous cause, and it should add to our thankfulness to day that it brings the promise that the threatening troubles with Spain will be honorably adjusted without a sanguinary contest. The American people have proved both their valor and their devotion to principle in the world's question, and they may justly count as blameless those that, if they had placed in authority have not been swayed by passion or influenced by clamor, but have wisely and firmly conducted negotiations towards an issue more honorable than the abhorrent use of the sword. While the acquaintance of the National honor and the protection of the rights of our citizens are imperative duties, a war between the two countries would be a calamity to both, and we shut rejoice to see the prospect of a peaceful reparation of injuries and the amelioration of Cuban affairs fully realized.

We trust that it is unnecessary to remind our readers that benevolence and thanksgiving may well go hand in hand, and that a sweeter savor will be imparted to the richest banquet by the consciousness of having provided some brig for the table of a less fortunate neighbor. There are many homes darkened by poverty and bereavement upon which charity and kindliness would shed a pleasant light to day, and the glow reflected upon the heart of the cheerful giver will prove genuine warmth for the days when the sun may go behind the clouds. The homes of New England will present happy scenes of reunion to day, as children and children's children gather around the family board, and although their will be vacant chairs to silently attest the vicissitudes of life and death, those who have been spared to meet again will find ample cause to give thanks and praise to Him who "doeth all things well."

The Bangor champion of Don Carlos may be interested in the following despatch from Washington —

The possibility of a peaceable solution depends upon the ability of the Castelar Government to maintain itself and enforce its authority. Upon this question opinion divides. It is known that the Carlists are using every effort to precipitate a war in the belief that a declaration of hostilities will open an unobstructed way to Madrid for the army of Don Carlos.

The New York Times suggests that the children should be taught the history of Tweed, and that Judge Davis' manly and searching address to the prisoner, on pronouncing sentence, should be incorporated into the reading books, in order to have the young folks imbued with the idea that a thief is a thief, and crime nothing less than crime, under all circumstances. A good suggestion.

The N Y. Tribune lays its lash without mercy upon the shoulders of some of its late political associates, in the following graphic description of certain war shriekers: "It is in times like these that the blatherskites of politics look for their opportunity. The ragged and starving adventurer, the disgraced politician, the back pay grabber, blushing under the reproaches of his constituents, the fallen statesman out-at-elbows, the office hunter who has been unlucky—all these men, the curse of American public life are watching for the swell of a great popular commotion to raise them into place and power.

The bailiffs entered the residence of Archbishop Ledochowski in Berlin last week, in accordance with the decree of the Court, and seized the furniture. The Archbishop maintains an attitude of resistance, although surprised at the severity of the measure.

THE SPANISH QUESTION!

WAR CLOUDS RECEDING!

HIGHLY IMPORTANT REPORTS.

SPAIN OFFERS REPARATION!

THE VIRGINIUS TO BE RETURNED!

Our Flag to be Saluted!

MR. FISH AND ADMIRAL POLO IN CONFERENCE!

Arranging the Terms!

THE HERALD'S SPECIAL WHO YESTERDAY ... PREPARATIONS FOR WAR ... BLOWS THE WAR BUGLE ...

... Nov. 26. The Herald's Washington correspondent, who yesterday telegraphed the extra work which has been ordered was stopped in all the navy yards, now telegraphs that the information imparted to correspondents in Washington during the ... week has been but a series of positive ... counteracted by positive ... while the warlike purposes of the ... is now beyond ... that every effort is being put forth ... of actual hostilities with Spain. The Secretary of the Navy, last ... received information on which quicken ... possible, the activity of his Department in ... a crisis.

The despatch goes on to state that most extraordinary efforts are being put forth to ... preparations, that the chiefs of Naval Bureaus have been granted plenary powers to put the Navy in fighting trim, without waiting for the Secretary's approval, and that the Commanders of Foreign Squadrons have been ordered to hasten with their vessels to Key West.

PER CONTRA—THE TIMES SAYS THE PROSPECT OF WAR IS RECEDING—BELIEF THAT SPAIN HAS PROMISED THE MOST AMPLE REPARATION.

... Times double leaded editorial ... reads as if it was semi-officially inspired, says we have reason to believe that the ... with Spain has assumed a shape ... places the prospect of war at a much greater distance than was the case yesterday. The Spanish Government has, we believe, ... its willingness to surrender the ..., bas ... and salute the flag, and deliver up the ... among the crew, and passengers, ... in short to comply substantially with the demands of the United States government, but it thinks that the question whether the Virginius was really an American ... should be decided first. Upon this latter point the Government is not likely to ... its original position, namely: ... the fact of the Virginius carrying duly ... papers and sailing under the American flag must be accepted as prima facie proof ... was an American vessel. The feeling ... at Washington at a late hour last night ... Spain would yield and that thus the ... of our Government would ...

DESPATCH FROM MINISTER SICKLES.

A Washington special says that despatches from Minister Sickles received last night state that the Spanish Government has decided to release the Virginius to the United States authorities. It is stated that our Government ... the ground that we alone and not Spain should decide the question whether the Virginius had forfeited her right to sail under the American flag, and whether those on board of her were engaged in violating the laws of the United States. The release of the vessel was formally demanded as the first step ... a satisfactory adjustment of the ... issue.

TEXT OF THE SPANISH DECISION ... EXPECTED.

... retary of the State is hourly expecting despatches officially confirming what has ... communicated unofficially ... probably by to night the full text of the ... arrive at by the Spanish Government ... be at hand.

AT THE NAVY YARD.

One hundred more men were put to work ... Navy Yard to-day. The frigate Colorado is expected to be ready for sea in a few ... Great activity continues in getting the ... and Dictator ready. Work on the new sloop of war is also under way. The ... will not be ready under a month ... Robeson visited the yard to-day and was gratified at the progress being made in the work. There will be no suspension of ... at the yard to-morrow.

BASIS OF SETTLEMENT AGREED UPON

A special despatch from Washington contains the following: Secretary Fish and Admiral Polo, the Spanish Minister, have agreed on a basis for the settlement of the Virginius matter, which agreement has just been transmitted to the Spanish Government by telegraph for approval. The Virginius is to be surrendered to the United States. It is the opinion of the members of the Senate Committee of Foreign Relations that the action of the Spanish Government in deciding to restore the Virginius removes any just cause which this country may have had for ... war.

MARINES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. A battalion of marines will be sent to Key West for the purpose of guarding public property and be ... entire marine force of the West India Squadron under command of Colonel Hay...

ADMIRAL PORTER.

It is rumored in naval circles that Admiral Porter will command the West India Squadron, but there is no official knowledge of the matter.

The Spanish frigate will be floated out of the dry dock to-morrow.

LATEST—THE SURRENDER OF THE VIRGINIUS STILL IN DOUBT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. As it is not customary for governments to publicly make known unless by competent authority the progress of negotiations it can therefore be said that the statements regarding an alleged agreement between Spain and the United States are, to say the least, premature.

While it can be repeated that the Spanish Cabinet still manifests a disposition to do whatever their honor will warrant, and while the United States ask nothing more than what the facts in the present controversy may justify, there is yet no such condition of affairs as will authorize the statement that a conclusion has been reached placing beyond doubt the surrender of the Virginius, for whatever agreement Admiral Polo with his enlarged powers may have made with Secretary Fish, will depend for ratification on the Spanish Cabinet, who, as expressed by several gentlemen in high public positions, will well consider the effect of their action, with a painful appreciation of the political and military embarrassments with which they have to deal at home, irrespective of the condition of affairs in Cuba.

SHERIDAN SENT FOR.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. Lieut. Gen. Sheridan left for Washington last night by the ten o'clock train. It is understood that he goes in obedience to an official summons to confer in regard to military affairs in case of war with Spain, in which event he would have the chief command in the field.

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

BOILER EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. A boiler in the book store of A. L. Bancroft & Co., Market street exploded to-night. The flames extended from the engine room to the furniture store of Henries & Co., damaging it to the extent of about $80,000. Bancroft's loss is about $10,000. During the fire James McGinn and two boys were nearly suffocated to death. They were got out and taken to their homes. It is feared that the man will die.

HARRIS CONVICTED.

The jury in the case of Frank Harris, mate of the ship Sunrise, tried for cruelty to seamen, returned a verdict of guilty on 20 counts of the indictment.

NEW YORK CITY

TWEED'S QUARTERS.

NEW YORK, Nov 26. The Times says that the District Attorney thinks that Sheriff Brennan may be liable to indictment for breach of official duty, if Tweed is not soon taken to Blackwell's Island.

ANOTHER EFFORT FOR A STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.

Tweed is to be kept in the Tombs several days to allow him to settle his private business. Wm. M. Evarts is reported to have been added to his counsel and he will apply for a stay of proceedings.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE

was sent to Comptroller Green to day by mail, but the box having a suspicious look, was cut open and no accident resulted. The box contained a drawer which was so arranged that on being pulled out it would ignite some lucifer matches and thence a quantity of powder, in which a number of bullets had been placed to destroy the life of the one opening it.

THE CUBAN MASSACRES.

The anniversary of the massacre of the medical students of the University of Havana, which took place three years ago, will be suitably observed in the church of Santiago de Cuba in this city to-morrow. The massacre of the men seized on board the Virginius will be also commemorated.

CONVICTED.

In the trial of Ingersoll and Farrington today, Judge Davis delivered a lengthy charge, after which the jury retired and returned in half an hour with a verdict of "Guilty!" The sentence was deferred to Friday owing to the indisposition of Mr. Fullerton.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

Dr. G. P. Setzer, Deputy Register of Bremen, is believed to have fled to this city. He is charged with Tweedism and forgery, and a heavy reward is offered for his capture.

The Havana bank robbers were to-day sentenced to two years in the Penitentiary.

A wholesale dry goods house on Church street was robbed of several thousand dollars worth of goods a few evenings since, the police in the vicinity not discovering the thieves, although passed by them several times during the robbery.

FROM BOSTON.

DISMISSED.

BOSTON, Nov 26. The Massachusetts Temperance Alliance has dismissed Martin Griffin, one of its prominent members, for advertising liquor notices in a paper which he is said to control.

RAILROAD SUIT.

A suit is pending in the U.S. Circuit Court, brought by the P. S. & P. R. R. Co., against the Boston & Maine, to recover a balance of $125,000 freight and passenger earnings said to be withheld by the latter Company.

FIRE.

A fire in North Cambridge today destroyed a large wooden building on Cedar st. owned by Samuel G. Reed and occupied as family hotel, and for stores, offices, &c. Loss $30,000—mostly insured.

PENNSYLVANIA.

JAY COOKE & CO., IN BANKRUPTCY.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26. Judge Cadwalader of the U. S. District Court to-day granted the petition of sundry parties adjudging Jay Cooke & Co., bankrupt and appointed J. Gillingham Fell, as receiver. The Judge intimated that further proceedings should be had under the 43d section of the law, authorizing the appointment of a trustee and committee by the creditors.

OHIO.

JUDGE SHERMAN RESIGNS—APPOINTMENT OF HIS SUCCESSOR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. A Washington special says that Charles T. Sherman, U. S. Judge for the Northern District of Ohio, against whom grave charges rested which were made the subject of investigation by the House Committee of Ways and Means and Judiciary, in connection with his impeachment, has resigned his office, and the President yesterday appointed Martin Welker of Ohio to the vacancy. Judge Sherman was appointed by President Johnson in March, 1867. Judge Welker was a member of the 39th, 40th and 41st Congress, from the 14th district of Ohio, and was regarded as an able and upright lawyer. He was personally very popular and his appointment to Judicial honors was urged by most of the Administration leaders in the State. He was born in Ohio and has been Judge of the 6th district for five years and Lieutenant-Governor and Judge Advocate General of the State.

IOWA.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

BURLINGTON, Nov. 26. A. Cook's shingle mill in this city this morning a boiler exploded, killing Henry Provost and injuring seven or eight others; two or three seriously, but it is thought not fatally. One man was blown 50 feet through an opening in the mill on to a pile of logs another man was blown still further.

LOUISIANA.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMAN ELECTED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. A New Orleans despatch states that George L. Smith, the Republican candidate, is elected by a large majority in the Shreveport Congressional District, made vacant by the death of Samuel Peters.

GEORGIA.

THE GRANGERS.

ATLANTA, Nov. 26. At a mass meeting of the farmers and Patrons of Husbandry yesterday which was largely attended, it was resolved to plant only one third of their crop next year in cotton. They favored cash payments, and declare their right to control the price of cotton.

THE WEATHER.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE ASHANTEE WAR.

LONDON, Nov 26. Late despatches have been received from Gen. Wolseley, commanding the Ashantee Expedition. They condemn the native auxiliaries as worthless. The Ashantees are in full retreat. Their main column, however, is within easy march of the British advance, yet the General is unable to overtake them, owing to the ... and cowardice of his native allies. ... of the humiliating position in ... placed in consequence of being obliged ... pend on such help.

THE VIRGINIUS CASE.

The Times this morning speaks ... of a peaceful solution of the Virginius question.

The Daily News says that the ... ultimatum of the United States ... to be equivalent to a declaration of war.

SPAIN.

NOT A PRECEDENT FOR MASSACRE.

MADRID, Nov. 26. The Imparcial (news paper) justifies the execution of the Virginius captures and cites as a precedent the circular issued by the United States during the war, declaring rebel privateers pirates.

GERMANY.

SPANISH INSURGENTS BROUGHT TO TERMS.

LONDON, Nov. 26. A despatch from Madrid says that the North German squadron was on Tuesday last formed in line of battle before Cartagena to enforce the demand upon the Insurgents for the restoration of 25,000 pesetas which were extorted from German subjects. Upon notice that a refusal would be followed by bombardment, the Insurgents paid the money.

DR. T. S. LAMBERT'S LECTURE on "Longevity" was continued last evening at City Hall, the principal point dwelt upon being the nature of life. A good audience was present and the hearers manifested quite an interest in the Doctor's remarks. The theory by which the probabilities of long or short life are determined was further explained in this lecture which really formed the conclusion to the one delivered on Tuesday evening.

AN AGREEABLE INTERRUPTION. The Ward 7 Debating Club held a meeting Tuesday evening, which was suddenly interrupted by the advent of a large number of lady friends of the members, who were laden with cake and other excellent eatables, and invited the Club to a lunch. The interruption was, as may well be supposed, a very agreeable one, and the visitors were welcomed as they deserved. It is a notable fact that the session that evening was somewhat protracted.

PATTEN ACADEMY. Mr. Editor.—The fall term of Patten Academy and High School which has been under the direction of Mr. W. S. Laton of the Castine State Normal school, closed on Friday, the 21st inst. The term has been very successful. A very pleasing feature of the closing hours was the presentation of a copy of Webster's Dictionary, the unabridged, illustrated edition, by the scholars to Mr. Laton. A fine exhibition by Mr. Laton's pupils at Academy Hall was witnessed on Friday evening by a full house.

A RARE BOOK. Mr. Geo. Fred. Howard showed us yesterday a copy of the writings of Confucius, the famous Chinese philosopher, printed in the Chinese character on rice paper, which is a veritable curiosity. It is the property of Mr Horatio Perry, to whom it was given by his brother, who obtained it in Hong Kong. The book bears evidence of great age but the print is as bright and fresh as when the impression was taken. The paper is thin as ordinary tissue paper, but very strong, and it would probably outwear a dozen modern books when subjected to hard usage. We haven't read much of it yet, though it looks mighty interesting.

WM L COOMBS, ESQ., of Bradford, died yesterday morning at the advanced age of 77 years. Mr. Coombs had been a resident of Bradford over fifty years, having taken up his residence there before there was any road between that place and this city, the only communication being on horse back by bridle path. He lived to see his town become one of the finest farming towns in the State and to raise a family of children, two of whom, I. W. Coombs, Esq., and T. H. Coombs, Esq., are residents of this city. His death will be lamented by a large circle of relatives and friends who had a great respect for his many sterling qualities.

A despatch from Halifax, N. S., states that grave apprehensions are felt there for the safety of the steamer Sirius, now thirty-six days out from Halifax for England. She had a passenger list and crew of nearly 300 men. When leaving port the captain expressed confidence in making the passage in a fortnight.

THE DICTATOR. A reporter who has been visiting the Brooklyn Navy Yard, says: The Dictator is moored alongside the Roanoke, and is when closely examined, a very formidable iron clad. She rests much lower in the water than the Roanoke, her stern being only three or four feet out of the water. The bow is somewhat higher. Apparently her turret is the only vulnerable part exposed, as it would be impossible for any ordinary man-of-war to depress even her lower tier guns sufficiently to strike her hull or deck. The deck is strongly braced, so that there is little danger to be apprehended from a plunging shot. She is well ventilated by a number of iron fonnels on the forward part of the deck, which when she is in motion, create a strong draft of air through the hold. She is a one turreted monitor, and is armed with two 15 inch guns. She is provided with a strong iron upper deck about the height of the turret, and reaching from that to the smoke-stack, which is to be used in heavy weather for promenade and as a place for observation. The Dictator is considered one of the best of her class and a good sea boat. On this account numerous applications have been already made to the Navy Department by those desirous of an appointment to sail in her.

The branches are wailing, wailing,
The winds are heavy and chill,
Footsteps sadly, sadly falling,
Go moaning over the hill.
For, lo! fall'n and forlorn,
My heart is like one benighted,
And the message to-day she crosses
Is to scant to right she tosses,
With gammoning, golden horn,
Oh, Heart, thou art stricken and all sad,
Watching and waiting for morn
While the night is so wearily waning
By sorrow is unavailing
To call back the Unreturning,
And foolish thy fondest desire,
To fan again into burning
The cold and desolate ashes—
To kindle again into lifeless
A fire that has vanished forever

AN UNINVITED GUEST

(Concluded.)

It struck me at once that the photograph about which a man on the eve of flight would take so much trouble, must be of a person very dear to him—probably his sweetheart. Although I had been intimate with Thrapstow, he had always been very reserved as to his own friends and acquaintances, and I had no clue to guide to me any of them, except the photographer's card.

Re-entering my cab, I drove off to the photographer's. There was no number or distinguishing mark upon the card, and the fact was that I failure that he would be able to tell me anything about it. Indeed, at first, when the man found that I wasn't a customer, he seemed little inclined to trouble himself about the matter. The promise of a fee, however, made him more reasonable, and he offered to let me see his books, that I might search for the name I wanted to find. It was in this that the photograph had been done for Thrapstow, if it had there would probably appear in the books only the useless record of his address, already known to me. Then the man shook his head. If I didn't know the name, it was no use looking; the card was no name, he said, he sent hundreds of every month. What information could he possibly give. Then I tried to describe the personal appearance of Thrapstow. But as he stood with his head. If he hadn't taken it in charge, he would not be likely to remember him; hardly even then, so many people passed through his hands.

All this time he had been carelessly holding the card in his fingers, glancing at it now and then, and suddenly an idea seemed to strike him. "Stop a bit," he said, and went into his dark chamber, and presently emerged, smelling strongly of chemicals. "Look here," he said, triumphantly. I looked and saw a very faint ghostly impression of a photograph. "It's printed through"—and the man—"they will sometimes—and I brought it to light. Yes, I know the original of that." Again he dived into a closet, and brought a negative with a number and label to it. Then he turned to his book, and wrote down an address for me—Mrs. Maidmont, Lark-pur Road, Notting Hill.

Away I went to Lark-pur Road. Mrs. Maidmont's house was a small comfortable-looking, with bright windows, verandahs, and green window-boxes, and I stroked my whiskers. Mrs. Maidmont was at home, said a dapper, pretty-looking maid, and I sent in my card, with a message, "On most important business." The maid came back to say that Mrs. Maidmont did not recognize the name, but would I walk up? I was shown into a morning drawing-room on the first floor. An elderly lady rose to greet me with an old-fashioned courtesy, at the same time with a sharp look of uneasy curiosity, quite in her face. This was not like a friend of the photographer who was a young and charming girl.

"Madame," I said rapidly, "I believe that my friend, Charles Thrapstow, is well known to you now, and of the utmost importance that I should ascertain where he is at this moment."

"Sorry," said the old lady. "You are laboring under a mistake, I know nothing whatever of the gentleman whose name you mention, a name I never heard before."

Was she deceiving me? I did not think so.

"Perhaps Mrs. Maidmont may know," I said quickly.

"Miss Maidmont is not likely to have formed any acquaintance without her mother's knowledge," said Mrs. Maidmont stiffly dignified. There seemed to be no alternative for me to retreat with apologies.

"I was very busy, you see," went on the old lady, with a wave of the hand, and indeed the room now I looked about me, I saw to be strewed with preparations for some festivity, a ball, perhaps, or, from a wreath of orange blossoms that I saw peeping out of a box, more likely a wedding. I was about to take my departure reluctantly, when a young girl—a charming young girl—bounded into the room, she was the original of the photograph.

"Oh, Mamma!" she cried, "here's a letter from poor Charlie to say he can't possibly be here to-night! Isn't it provoking? And I want to consult him about so many things."

"Well, my dear Isabel," said the old lady, "I dare say you'll have enough of his company after to-morrow." From which I judged my surmises as to the wedding was correct, and that Charlie was the bridegroom elect.

"By the way," she went on, "here's a gentleman, Peter, who insists that we know Mr. Charles—I forget the name now—Thrapstow. I'm telling her."

"Mr. Charles Thrapstow. You don't of such person, Bella?"

"I know of no Mr. Charles that Charles Templeton," said Isabel.

It struck me, too, that the initials of our friend should be the same. May I ask if you have a portrait, taken by Blu- of Kensington?"

"Dear my worth," said Mrs. Maidmont, rising and finding the letter "this is rather too much for a stranger. We don't know you, and we don't know you. Susan, show this gentleman out."

But again Isabel cried, with a beseeching look in her face and a mustache had arrived at the

"No, I'll order these gentlemen the keys," I said, hoarsely. I must, at speed, go."

Isabel and my pleading words of description I could see moved to me as we were standing the stairs, and said, "Miss Isabel's young man is exactly like that." Half a crown and a few of allurements, which a dear old lady cannot, I think ever, may worthy spouse would have pardoned, put me in possession of the

Also I soon that was really going to be mar- at a morning, morning at St. Sepulchre's church to a Mr. Charles Templeton, a very good looking young man, whom they had not known long, but who seemed to be very well off. My description of my friend tallied with so much of the bridegroom but the coincidence might be merely accidental.

"Did Mrs Maidmont a photograph of her lover?" I asked.

She had in her own room, I seemed, Susan couldn't get at it now without suspicion, but she promised to secure it, and bring it with her if I would meet her at nine o'clock at the corner of the street.

I was punctual to my tryst and at once, Susan made her appearance with a morocco case containing an excellent likeness of my friend Charles Thrapstow, massive pin, with a topaz in it, and all.

Now what was to be done? Should I go to Mrs. Maidmont and tell her how she was deceived in her daughter's lover? That would have been the way best adapted to spare the feelings of the Maidmont's, but would it bring back the five thousand pounds? I thought not.

"Miss Maidmont," I soliloquized, "will find some way to warm her lover. Even robbing a ball may not embitter a girl against her sweetheart, and no doubt she's over head and ears in love with Charlie." No, I determined on a different plan.

I rose early next morning, dressed myself with care, put on a pair of pale primrose gloves, donned my newest beaver, and took a cab to St. Spikenard's, Notting Hill.

The bells were jangling merrily as I alighted at the church door; a small crowd had already gathered on the pavement, drawn together by that keen foresight of coming excitement characteristic of the human species. "Friend of the bridegroom," I whispered to the verger, and was forthwith shown into the vestry. The clergyman was there already, and shook hands with me in a vague kind of way.

"Not the bridegroom?" he said in a mild, interrogative manner. I told him that I was only one of his friends, and we stood looking at each other in a comatose kind of way, till a little confusion at the vestry door broke the spell. "Here he comes!" whispered some one, and next moment there appeared in the vestry, looking pale and agitated, but very handsome, Mr Charles Thrapstow.

I had caught him by the arm and led him into a corner, before he recognized who I was. When he saw me, I thought his would have fainted. "Don't betray me," he whispered.

I held out my hand with a significant gesture.

"Five thousand," I whispered in his ear. "You shall have it in five minutes."

"Your minutes are long ones, Master Charlie," I said.

With trembling fingers he took out a pocket-book, and handed me a roll of notes.

"I meant it for you, Tom, he said. Perhaps he did, but we know the fate of good intentions.

It didn't take me long to count over those notes; there were exactly five thousand pounds.

"Now, said I, "Master Charlie, take yourself off."

"You promised," he urged, "not to betray me."

"No more I will, if you go."

"She's got ten thousand of her own," he whispered.

"Be off; or else"—

"No! I won't," said Charlie, making up his mind with a desperate effort; "I'll make a clean breast of it."

At that moment there was a bit of a stir, and a general call for the bridegroom. The bride had just arrived, people said. He pushed his way out to the carriage, and whispered a few words to Isabel, who fell back in a faint! There was a great fuss and bustle and then some one came and said that there was an informality in the license, and that the wedding couldn't come off that day.

I didn't wait to see anything further, but posted off to the bank, and got there just as the board were assembling. I suppose some of the directors had got wind of Thrapstow's failure, for the first thing I heard when I got into the board-room, was old Venables grumbling out; "How about those Damascus bonds, Mr Manager?" I rode rough shod over old Venables, and tyrannized considerably over the board in general that day, but I couldn't help thinking how close a thing it was, and how very near shipwreck I had been!

As for Thrapstow, I presently heard that, after all he had arranged with his creditors, and made it up with Miss Maidmont. He had a tongue that would wind round any thing, if you only gave him time, and I wasn't much surprised at hearing that his wedding day was fixed. He hasn't sent me an invitation, and I don't suppose he will, and I certainly shall not thrust myself forward a second time as an uninvited guest.—[From Chamber's Journal.

Seventh Year.

The Aldine,

An Illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handsomest Publication in the World. A Representative and Champion of American Taste.

Not for Sale in Book or News Stores.

THE ALDINE will be issued with all the regularity, has some of the temporary or timely interest character of ordinary periodicals. It aims to give a monthly of pure, high and refined pictorial art and artistic literature, and to present in every issue a collection of pictures, the first object of which is, in black and white. Also, each subscriber a beautiful chromo, by the best artists in this country and Europe, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be seen and appreciated after it has become a work of the past year. While subscriptions may claim superior cheapness, as compared with those of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—a work which approaches it absolutely without competition or character. The possessor of a complete set of THE ALDINE has cannot be replaced the quantity of fine paper and engravings in each of the issues of the number volumes for ten times its cost. And then, it is a work of art, and

ART DEPARTMENT, 1874.

The Distributions of THE ALDINE have won a world wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is acknowledged that its productions are the highest perfection in steel engraving. The company is determined to fully sustain this reputation, and will place in the hands of its subscribers during the year, three splendid steel plates, of rapidly increasing merit and beauty. Each of these will be worth the price of the entire issue, and the advantages of this method of publication, in point of quality will be greater than if only one plate were given. The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE possess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate while they afford a better guarantee of the artist's original.

To fully realize the wonderful work which THE ALDINE is doing for the cause of art culture in America, it is only necessary to consider the cost to the people of any other class of representations of the productions of great painters.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will reproduce fac-similes of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic merit and greatest general interest. The subscriber to THE ALDINE will, at a trifling cost, enjoy in his own home the pleasures and refining influence of true art.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1874 will be by Miss Mary Hallock Foote and J. D. Woodward.

The Christmas plate for 1874 will contain specimen designs of the season, by our best artists, and will be given to all fractional parts of this present.

PREMIUM FOR 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 who receives a pair of chromos. The engravings were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE by Thomas Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten thousand dollars.

The subjects were chosen to represent "Domestic Felicity" and "The Wife." One is a view in the White Mountains, New Hampshire, the other gives the cliffs of Green River, Wyoming Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a positive contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos each worked from thirty distinct plates, are in size (12x16) and appearance exact fac-similes of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscriber's of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself:

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20th, 1873.

Messrs. JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Gentlemen,—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonderfully successful representations by mechanical process of the original painting.

Very respectfully,
(Signed,) THOS. MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense objects. They are by an original American process, with materials of American manufacture, from designs by American scenery by an artist of talent, and presented to the first successful attempt to place before the public so faithful a production of genuine works of art, at so low a price. If by reason of peculiar facilities of production they cost the publishers only a trifle, a similar appeal to other chromos that now sold for double the subscription price of THE ALDINE. Persons who pay these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did not cost, and will appreciate the enterprise that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject, the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home," a large and beautiful chromo, 14x20 inches, representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

$3 per annum, in advance, with Oil Chromos free!

For 50 cents extra, the chromos will be sent unmounted, varnished, and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtained only by subscription. There will be no premium and club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, who is responsible for the publication of the work, and in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of JAMES SUTTON & Co.

LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Passed at the Third Session of the Forty-second Congress.

Convention between the United States of America and Denmark Naturalization. Concluded July 20, 1872. Ratified January 22, 1873; Ratifications exchanged March 14, 1873; Proclaimed April 15, 1873.

By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas a convention between the United States of America and His Majesty the King of Denmark, relative to the naturalization of citizens and subjects of the two countries, was concluded and signed at Copenhagen by their respective plenipotentiaries on the twentieth day of July, 1872, the original of which convention, being in the English and Danish languages, is word for word as follows:

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of Denmark being desirous to regulate the citizenship of the citizens of the United States of America who have emigrated, or who may emigrate, from the United States of America to the Kingdom of Denmark, and of Danish subjects who have emigrated, or who may emigrate, from the Kingdom of Denmark to the United States of America, have resolved to conclude a convention for that purpose, and have named as their plenipotentiaries, that is to say, the President of the United States of America, Richard C. Cramer, minister resident of the United States of America at Copenhagen, and His Majesty the King of Denmark, Otto Didrik Baron Rosenorn-Lehn, commander of Dannebrog and Dannebrogsmand, chamberlain, His Majesty's minister for foreign affairs, &c., &c., &c.

Who after having communicated to each other their respective full powers found to be in good and due form, having agreed upon and concluded the following articles, to wit:

ARTICLE I.

Citizens of the United States of America who have become, or shall become, and are naturalized according to law, within the Kingdom of Denmark as Danish subjects, shall be held by the United States of America to be in respect and for all purposes Danish subjects, and shall be treated as such by the United States of America.

In like manner, Danish subjects who have become or shall become, and are naturalized according to law, within the United States of America as citizens thereof, shall be held within the Kingdom of Denmark to be in all respects and for all purposes citizens of the United States of America, and shall be treated as such by the Kingdom of Denmark.

ARTICLE II.

If any such citizen of the United States as aforesaid, naturalized within the Kingdom of Denmark as a Danish subject, should renew his residence in the United States, the United States government may, on his application, and on such conditions as that government may see fit to impose, readmit him to the character and privileges of a citizen of the United States, and he shall be held by Denmark to have renounced his character and privileges of a Danish subject, and the United States government shall not hold Denmark responsible for any protection the latter may afford to such citizen on account of his former Danish nationality.

In like manner, if any such Danish subject, naturalized within the United States as a citizen thereof, should renew his residence within the Kingdom of Denmark, His Majesty's government may, on his application, and on such conditions as that government may think fit to impose, readmit him to the character and privileges of a Danish subject, and the United States government shall not hold Denmark responsible for any protection the latter may afford to such citizen on account of his former American nationality.

navigation of said river at any time, the government expressly reserves the right to remove or direct the removal of any such piers or cribs at the owner's cost and expense of the owners thereof.

Approved, March, 3, 1873.

By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas objects of interest to the United States require that the Senate should be convened at twelve o'clock on the fourth of March next, to receive and act upon such communication as may be made to it on the part of the Executive:

Now, therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, have considered it to be my duty to issue this proclamation, declaring that an extraordinary occasion requires the Senate of the United States to convene for the transaction of business at the Capitol, in the city of Washington, on the fourth day of March next, at twelve o'clock on said day, of which all who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body are hereby required to take notice.

Given under my hand and the seal of the United States, at Washington, the twenty-first day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-seventh.

U. S. GRANT.

By the President:
HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.

TREATY.

A Agreement between the United States and Spain for the Settlement of certain Claims of Citizens of the United States, made by Daniel E. Sickles, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States of America, and the Right Honorable Edward Henry Stanley, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Her Britannic Majesty, &c., &c., &c.

Who after having communicated to each other their respective full powers found to be in good and due form, having agreed upon and concluded the following articles, to wit:

ARTICLE I.

Citizens of the United States of America who have become, or shall become, and are naturalized, according to law, within the Kingdom of Denmark as Danish subjects, shall be held by the United States of America to be in respect and for all purposes Danish subjects, and shall be treated as such by the United States of America.

In like manner, Danish subjects who have become or shall become, and are naturalized, according to law, within the United States of America as citizens thereof, shall be held within the Kingdom of Denmark to be in all respects and for all purposes citizens of the United States of America, and shall be treated as such by the Kingdom of Denmark.

ARTICLE II.

If any such citizen of the United States as aforesaid, naturalized within the Kingdom of Denmark as a Danish subject, should renew his residence in the United States, the United States government may, on his application, and on such conditions as that government may see fit to impose, readmit him to the character and privileges of a citizen of the United States, and he shall be held by Denmark to have renounced his character and privileges of a Danish subject, and the United States government shall not hold Denmark responsible for any protection the latter may afford to such citizen on account of his former American nationality.
